S-TU HEAD WOMEN'S BASKETBALL COACH TAMMY BIESENTHAL

Tammy Biesenthal -- hard working, intelligent and intensely competitive -- coached the Lady Tigers to the 1994-95 WVIAC Championship and first ever WVIAC Tournament Championship in only her second year at Salem-Teikyo University.

Entering her third season at S-TU, she has already coached her team to eight S-TU women's records, and through her shrewd ability to recognize and recruit talented athletes -- particularly outstanding junior college players -- Biesenthal has indelibly impressed her mark on the conference.

Weeks on the road following-up potential leads, days watching high school and junior college games, hours on the phone talking to parents and players are invested. She finds these players the old fashioned way -- by perseverance and hard work.

A strong work ethic, on and off the floor, is a Biesenthal trademark attached to her during her college playing years at Concordia College (Michigan) where she still holds four school records -- single game scoring, season scoring, career scoring, and most field goals -- and graduated Summa Cum Laude with a degree in physical education and business management. She also earned her master's degree in exercise science from Central Michigan University.

Now, as Coach Biesenthal, she expects no less from her student athletes. She sets high standards on and off the court for them.

Entering only her third season coaching at a four year school, following five years coaching (assistant at Concordia and head coach at Alpena Community College in Michigan), enthusiasm prominently marks her style. She encourages and cultivates this enthusiasm by playing true team basketball. In 80% of the games last year the entire bench got playing time.

Coach Tammy Biesenthal -- intelligent, enthusiastic, competitive, and hard working. Everything one expects to see in a head coach...a WVIAC Championship winning coach.

FOND REFLECTIONS, OPTIMISTIC EXPECTATIONS

"Great players don't win games...great teams win games!" means much more than just a stick-on-the-wall, pump-up-the-players motto for coach Tammy Biesenthal. It's her heart-felt credo.

The Lady Tigers' starters who won 26-3, 18-1 conference, return. What do they now do for an encore? Is there a down side?

"We ended our season on a low point last year. We prepared for that game at the nationals. We played 35 minutes winning the game and then we let up. So this season we feel like we have "unfinished business" (the team's motto this year) and we want to get back there. Be ready to play every game," says Biesenthal.

The starters, mostly seniors, returned to practice this fall in better condition than last year -- much stronger from hitting the weights. According to Biesenthal, practices are at least two weeks ahead of last year because of two things: First, the players know the system and do not have to be blended. Secondly, the players' mental attitude is tougher than last year.

"I'm a practice coach. We focus on fundamentals and defense. Our defense was good last year, but we need a lot of improvement. Our practices have been very intense. The veteran players now know they have to be mentally tough to win and that's contagious to the whole team. As a team I want to see a smarter defense and solid post-up game. They are much more serious this year."

The Lady Tigers' strength is depth. The first eight are guaranteed starters anywhere in the WVIAC; the rest of the squad would get serious minutes elsewhere. And this suits Biesenthal just fine because this team loves to play pressure, fast-break, full court basketball. Last season she used the whole bench in 80% of the games. Biesenthal's reputation for recruiting excellent talent is well deserved. And if, as she believes, great players do not win games, it can at least be said that great players do in fact make great teams.. At Salem-Teikyo University we have both -- great players and a great team.

ASSISTANT COACH LEANN BIRD

Nearly ten years ago a young woman from Hot Springs, VA, walked onto the hardwoods at S-TU. She never left.

LeAnn Bird came here to play basketball, which she did much better than most. She holds third place in all-time S-TU scoring.

Along the way, Bird completed two bachelor's degrees at S-TU -- natural sciences and education. Over the years Bird has developed into an integral part of S-TU athletics as assistant basketball coach, head women's tennis coach, facilities and work study director. For many of the logistical problems which sprout-up around the athletic department, LeAnn is the go-to person. She gets things done.

Entering only her fourth season as assistant basketball coach, Bird already enjoys a well-deserved reputation for her fine recruiting abilities.

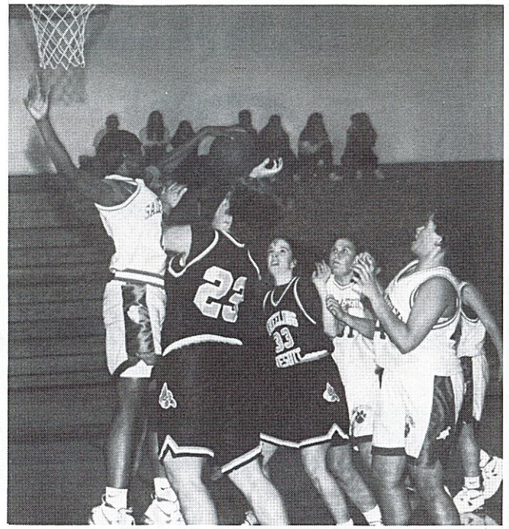
PLAYER OF THE YEAR

#14 CHARLOTTE POWELL
SR., 5'8", GUARD
CLEVELAND, OH

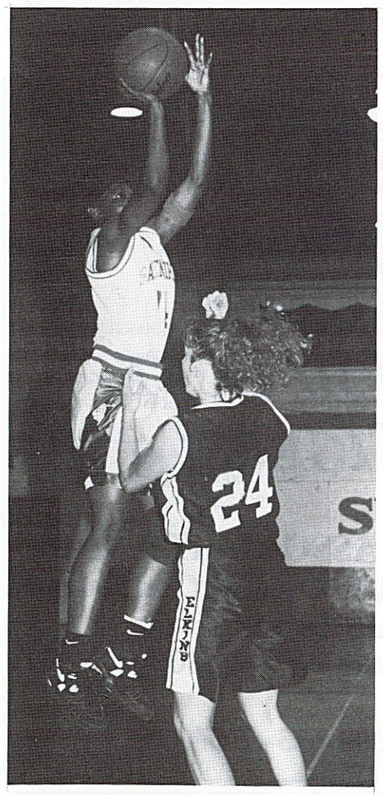


At Salem-Teikyo's first timeout the referee wandered to the baseline and asked the photographer, "Who is number 14? Where's she from? She's the best player this conference has seen for a long time. She plays like a boy!"

"Oh, that's Charlotte Powell from Cleveland."

That's Charlotte Powell, a Greater Cleveland East Senate Player of the Year At East High and two-time Kodak All-American. A two-time Ohio Community College Athletic Conference scoring leader. The 1994 national junior-college leading scorer (25.2). A WVIAC Player of the Year and an All-American at S-TU.

She remembers well her introduction to basketball by fourth grade Coach Blair at Margaret A. Ireland Elementary.



"I had no idea what I was doing. Just throw the ball through that hoop up there was all I knew. I just picked it up", Charlotte recalls. "From day one I always played with the boys."

Her offensive style reflects years of male influence. One way or another, whether driving the lane or baseline, pulling up for a three-point shot or dumping a no-look pass to a team mate, she figures some way to get "the ball through the hoop up there." Although she's a controlled, classy player on the floor, Charlotte's a cheerleading sparkplug from the bench.

Last season at S-TU, Charlotte continued to lead still another conference, the WVIAC, with 24.4 points and 9.6 rebounds per game. She ranked third nationally in NCAA Division II scoring.

Says coach Tammy Biesenthal, "Charlotte knows the game. She scores from the outside or from the hole, and she posts up well. She's a great athlete. But what makes Charlotte so good is that she is a great person. She always supports teammates 100 percent."

So how does a potential Division I city girl end up playing small-college ball in the Mountain State?

After Charlotte's 1991 MVP season at Cuyahoga Community College, when she marked up 10.8 rebounds and 28.3 points per game, poor academics cost her eligibility. She thought her college basketball days were over. But CCC's Coach Duncan thought differently.

One day, after the required sit-out period, coach Denise Duncan appeared at Charlotte's house and announced, "You're going back to school!"

"I was forced back to school," Charlotte smiles. "This time I focused on my grades and kept my grades up."

Her second semester 3.12 earned her a spot on CCC's Dean's List.

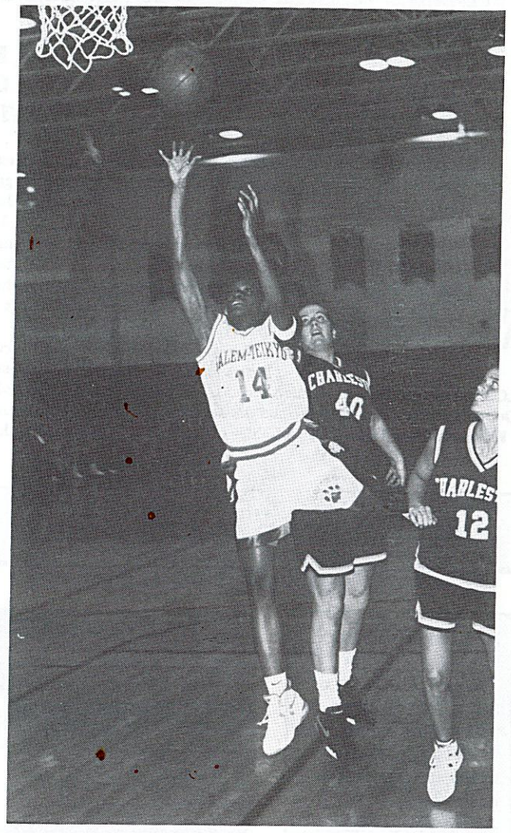
ALL - AMERICAN

Selected NAIA All-American, 1995 WVIAC Player of the Year; S-TU single season scoring record with 708 points; posted 9-double-double games; scored 35 points against Wheeling-Jesuit 12/3/94; pulled down 15 rebounds against Glenville 1/11/95



Along the way, she posted another MVP season, placed second in the nation in scoring with a 25.2 average and was the first player in CCC history to have her number, 22, retired.

Coach Duncan explains Charlotte's academic turn-around this way: "I'm one who believes in giving a person a second chance. I went to Charlotte and told her I wanted her back in school even if she didn't play basketball. She's a very shy young lady, but she's very bright with a strong work ethic. Academically, her problem was that she never was told nor taught to study in high school. Being a top athlete, she just showed up and got by. I sat down and taught her how to study. I told her, 'It's in you. We just got to bring it out.'"

Keeping up with her studies and earning her degree in Youth and Human Services was her top priority in picking a four-year college. Working with inner city kids had become her driving motivation.

"My main goals now are to get my degree, play some pro ball somewhere, and go back to Cleveland and work with kids," Charlotte said.

S-TU offers a nationally recognized program in this field of study. Plus, the school teaches courses the modular system, in which a single subject is taught five days a week for 3 1/2 weeks. Charlotte says this system permits her to concentrate and do much better in the classroom.

Several other factors determined her choice of S-TU over the 20 other colleges trying to sign her. She knew and liked Coach Biesenthal from playing against the Alpena Community College team Biesenthal coached before she came to S-TU. Also, some of Charlotte's future S-TU teammates were the best players she played against at junior college level.

Powell's S-TU team, with a 13-player roster, played all its players in 80% of its games last season. This statistic magnifies Charlotte's on-floor accomplishments. Consider this: She averages just about 30 minutes playing time, yet produces 24.4 points, 9.6 rebounds, 4 steals and 3.3 assists per game.

Talk about life in the fast lane! For a city girl, adjustment to S-TU's rural campus has taken some work.

"Because I didn't want distractions was a reason for coming to Salem," Charlotte said. Then she adds, "But having to drive 12 miles to the closest McDonald's is a bit much. I sure miss not being able to get on a bus at any time I want to and go places. There aren't even any buses here!"

Maybe so. But for Charlotte Powell, transplanted Clevelander, the isolation of rural West Virginia life has proven to be a shot of adrenaline that's helping her achieve her goals -- both on and off the hardwood.

DOUBLE TROUBLE
THE ROBINSON TWINS

#24 NAKITA ROBINSON
SR., 5'8" GUARD
DETROIT, MI

This junior college transfer (Lansing Community College) burned up the conference offensively the first ten games last season with 21 PPG, and 51% FG and 42% 3-point percentages; for the last 14 regular season games N. Robinson posted 12.9 PPG, 43% FG and 38% 3-point percentages. But, it's vital to note, the twins Robinson double-imaged defense helped lower opponents' scoring from 71.4 PPG, before Markita, to 63 PPG after Markita became eligible.

Nakita shoots well (placed 8th in the WVIAC), is a fine ball handler, and a good transition player. She's fast and is one of the conference's toughest defensive players when she's intense.

Before S-TU: Played for coach Irvin Brunson at Lansing Community College, MI, which team played in the national championship game her freshman year...while at LCC she was selected All-Conference, All-Region and All-State...played high school for coach Virginia Lawrence at Detroit's Murray Wright where she was selected All-City, All-Metro, and All-State.

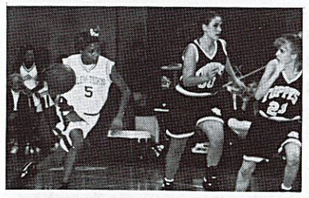
After becoming eligible, Markita overwhelmed opponents offensively with her shooting, passing (3 assists PG), and fast-break attacks. Defensively, when focused, there may not be any better in the conference; she leads the team with 3.4 steals per game. Sisters, Nakita and Markita, ar veterans of many competitive seasons and post-season campaigns. Individually or in tandem, when they concentrate, the twins can destroy opponents, defensively or offensively, on any given evening--i.e. Double Trouble.



Before S-TU: Played for coach Irvin Brunson at Lansing Community College where she helped her team get to the national game her freshman year and through the regionals her sophomore year...at LCC she was selected Western Conference Player of the Year, MVP, All-Region and All-American...she played for coach Virginia Lawrence at Murray Wright High (Detroit) when, her senior year, the team played in the state championship game...she was selected All-City and All-State and Miss Michigan Basketball runner-up in 1991.

Scored 22 points against West Liberty; 13 rebounds vs Alderson-Broaddus; 4 blocked shots vs Ohio Valley.

Nikki Gasper possesses everthing she needs to be a dominant player in this conference -- experience, knowledge of the game, skills, strength and size. Last season we saw glimpses of how very good she can be at this level. This year, her senior year, Gasper should be able to pull it all together for more game-to-game consistency. She has a nice outside shot and, inside or out, when she's focused, Gasper can make a scoreboard light up. Defensively, she leads the team with 44 blocked shots.

Before S-TU: Played for coach Doug Dowdy at Kellogg Community College (Battlecreek, MI) where she was selected to the Western Conference All Stars for two years and co-MVP her sophomore year...played high school ball for coach Daniel Schottens at Belding High School (MI) where she posted a high game of 31 points.

Marked-up 10 points and 10 assists against West Liberty; 6 rebounds vs. Charleston; 6 steals vs. Ohio Valley.

Things happen when Kathy Corchis steps on the floor. And mostly they're good things. Her in-your-face defense causes much mischief and often leads to fast-break opportunities for teammates. Deceivingly quick, she'll take the ball inside without hesitation. She has a good 15 footer when she uses it, but mostly defers shooting to others. Corchis, the team's second best thief with 2.4 steals per game, ranked third in assists (2.9 per game) last season.

As a freshman, Angie Arrington led this team in scoring and rebounds. Her sophomore year, even with the tidal wave of junior college talent, her numbers stayed sound -- second in rebounding with 6 per game, second in shooting percentage (54%) -- although her floor time was limited. Arrington plays no-nonsense inside the paint. She runs the floor well and is the team's second best jumper next to Powell.

Stephanie Shine, a junior, hobbled about with a knee injury much of her freshman year. The injury hindered her sophomore play well into the season. Then, towards tournament time, you could see her old form returning as she prowled the paint harassing opponents' offenses. She's tough, a tireless runner, and plays both ends. This year, recovered 100%, Shine should create havoc inside throughout the conference.

Recruited from junior college where she played guard, the early report on Joann Turnbow is that she is also a no-nonsense inside player who shoots strongly inside and hits the boards very hard on both ends. She has a nice outside shot, runs the floor well, knows the game, and is a very good athlete. Turnbow can handle any position from post to point.

Before S-TU: Played her junior college ball for coach Bloodworth at Lake Michigan College (MI) where she was selected All-Region and shot 81% from the foul line...played her senior year of high school ball for coach Beth Swears at St. John's High in Lansing, MI. where she set the school record with 28 rebounds in one game.

Every so often, like Haley's comet visits, coaches can be pleasantly surprized. That's the story behind freshman walk-on Renae Parsons. At 5'5", her height sure didn't open any doors for her; still, being a very good athlete does. From practice to practice Parsons' stock continued to increase with the coaches. Her good attitude, strong work ethic, and quick-learning ability earned her a spot on the roster. She sees the floor well and is fundamentally very sound.
